

Daniel Eisenhut

Daniel Eisenhut (born 1974 in Tel Aviv, Israel) moved to Switzerland in 1997. After a two-year internship with the Scottish artist Andrew Ward and the Korean-American artist Kathi Choi, he opened up his own art school in St. Gallen, Switzerland. Since then he is teaching portraying and nude-painting in various Swiss cities. Eisenhut had a number of national and international time performances and exhibitions in various galleries and museums. It is very important to him to work with people. To be an artists means to him to observe and to create something now.
