

Roschi Roshanak Khalilian

Roshanak Khalilian was born in Iran. She studied in Iran for her BA and still continues her studies in Art and its Histories with OU university of UK. She has lived and travelled extensively throughout the Middle East and Europe, and now lives in Switzerland with her family.

Different cultures and their interpretations of happiness and life has been her main inspiration to pursue art as means of demonstrating emotions. She believes that colors can tell tales. Abstraction is her language to employ the colors, shapes with different mediums and techniques to transfer the captivated fragments of human nature and its positive attitudes. She has developed her own mix media in addition to her ink works titled as „Mind Games“.

Her style portrays the universality of human nature and their simplistic and immediate characteristics; painting has been her tools to combine eastern and western art forms and colors to illustrate the collective human nature.
